Bright straw-green; either Cloudburst has managed to secure some top-flight grapes and/or had the wines made very skilfully; either way, both this and its Cabernet Sauvignon have great purity and tightly controlled winemaking at every point along the way. White flowers, grapefruit and high tensile acidity are the keys to this wine.

Pale crimson-purple; a striking black bottle with a single word on the screen-printed gold label: 'Cloudburst'. This is a very well made Margaret River cabernet, with purity and focus its watchwords; cassis and bay leaf fruit sits in a frame of firm, but not dry, tannins; has impressive length.

Ritzy packaging to one side, an outstanding feature of this wine is its exceptionally supple mouthfeel. Having said that, the purity of the varietal expression lays convincing claim to being more striking than the mouthfeel. Then there is the perfection of the balance. It goes on and on.

Bright crimson; an impeccably made wine without a single blemish in its complexion, the bouquet and palate deliver the same message: clearly varietal plum with fine tannins and quality oak.
